PH REGULATION

Regulating the pH of pool water is essential to ensure swimming comfort and the effectiveness of disinfectants. Optimum pH level (7.0–7.6).

ALGAE CONTROL

Controlling algae in the pool involves using anti-algaecides to inhibit their growth and prevent the water from becoming cloudy. It is also important to regularly chlorinate and filter the water.

COAGULATION

Coagulation is a pool water purification process that involves combining fine impurities into larger particles that are more easily removed during filtration.

MAINTENANCE CLEANLINESS

Maintaining the cleanliness of pool water includes the regular use of degreasers and descalers to help remove greasy deposits and lime deposits from pool surfaces and equipment.
